The HMHB Consortium Advancing MMS Implementation

The Healthy Mother Healthy Baby (HMHB) Consortium website is a central resource hub for maternal and newborn nutrition, offering key programmatic documents, guidance, and evidence to support the implementation of Multiple Micronutrient Supplementation (MMS) in maternal health programs.

The platform consolidates research, policy frameworks, tools to aid implementation and best practices to help governments, NGOs, and stakeholders scale up MMS programs. It facilitates expert dialogue, advocates for MMS adoption, and provides a publicly accessible knowledge repository to support informed decision-making and strengthen implementation strategies for better maternal and infant health outcomes.

In their own words, HMHB follows the A-B-C approach:

- Advocate for policies and programs that enhance maternal nutrition and MMS.
- Broker knowledge by capturing, sharing, and disseminating evidence and lessons learned.
- Build consensus by convening experts on key technical topics related to maternal nutrition and MMS.

We encourage suppliers, stakeholders, and readers to explore the HMHB website for valuable programmatic insights and resources on MMS implementation.
